

The American Outdoorsman® takes your privacy very seriously and has set these guidelines for the use of any information you provide to us:

Information Collection and Use

General

The American Outdoorsman® collects information such as your name, email address, location, etc. when you correspond with us by email, phone, letter, etc. and visit The American Outdoorsman® web pages or the pages of our partners. The American Outdoorsman® may combine our information about you with information we obtain from business partners or other companies.

Any information we collect from correspondence is given voluntarily.

The American Outdoorsman® collects information about transactions you may have with our partners.

The American Outdoorsman® may record information on our server logs from your browser, such as IP address, the page you request, etc. We may also use cookies to record information on your computer.

The American Outdoorsman® uses information for the following general purposes: to customize the content you on our web site and TV show, fulfill your requests for products and services, improve our services, contact you, conduct research, and provide anonymous reporting for internal and external clients.

Children

The American Outdoorsman® asks that whenever children under the age of 13 correspond with

The American Outdoorsman® that they have the permission of their parent or guardian. If a parent chooses not to allow us to further collect or use a child's information, parents may feel free to contact us and ask us to stop correspondence with their child or remove their information from our databases.

Information Sharing and Disclosure

The American Outdoorsman® does not rent, sell, or share personal information about you with other people or non-affiliated companies except to provide products or services you've requested, when we have your permission, or under the following circumstances:

We provide the information to trusted parties to help us communicate with you about offers from The American Outdoorsman® and our marketing partners. However, these companies do not have any independent right to share this information.

We reserve the right to post correspondences, in part or in full, on our Web site if we believe them to be relevant, enjoyable and informational to others unless specifically requested not to.

We respond to subpoenas, court orders, or legal process, or to establish or exercise our legal rights or defend against legal claims.

We believe it is necessary to share information in order to investigate, prevent, or take action regarding illegal activities, suspected fraud, situations involving potential threats to the physical safety of any person, or as otherwise required by law.

The American Outdoorsman® does not provide any personal information to advertisers except general demographics for our TV Show or Web Site, such as the number of viewers for men ages 18-24 from a particular geographic area.

Changes to this Privacy Policy

The American Outdoorsman® may update this policy. However, we will not utilize information gathered previous to any radical changes in our privacy policy without your consent in ways that are only allowed by the new changes to the policy.

Terms and Conditions

Due to the nature of some items that are sold, you must verify your age for the purchase of handgun components, long gun components, or ammunition.

By agreeing to our terms & conditions you are making the following declaration: Declaration of Buyer: "I acknowledge this dealer does not authorize that I may lawfully purchase, possess, carry or operate bows, crossbows, paint pistols, air pistols, air rifles, black powder items, or any other items which I may purchase, in accordance with my state and local laws. I understand the legality of the merchandise I am ordering and I declare that I am of legal age and have no other legal disabilities."

We DO NOT warranty that you may purchase or possess handgun components, long gun components, or ammunition according to state or local laws. By agreeing to the terms & conditions, you are stating that you are of legal age to purchase the components or ammunition. This certifies that you are an adult and under no legal disability as provided under 18 U.S.C 922D (1) - (7).

NOTE: We require you to be at least 21 years of age to purchase handgun components, long gun components, or ammunition.
